DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-35, drawn to a twisted nematic liquid crystal display device for conducting a display operation in normally black mode, classified in class 349, subclasses 117-119.
- II. Claims 36-38, drawn to a multilayer phase plate, classified in class 428, subclass 1.1.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01).

In the instant case, the different inventions are that of a liquid crystal display device and a multilayer phase plate. The multilayer phase plate may be used in many different types of devices and not just liquid crystal display devices.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Art Unit: 2871

This application contains the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention:

Species A, an embodiment, wherein a first optical compensator compensates for wavelength dependence of angle of rotation of polarized light passing through the liquid crystal layer in a black display state and a second optical compensator compensates for wavelength dependence of ellipticity of polarized light passing through the liquid crystal layer in the black state.

Species B, another embodiment, wherein a first optical compensator hardly changes polarization direction of linearly polarized light ray having a particular wavelength and substantially aligning the elliptical major-axis direction of an elliptically polarized light ray with particulars of wavelength and a second optical compensator has functions of passing linearly polarized light having particulars of wavelength and changing the elliptically polarized light ray.

Species C, another embodiment, comprising a twisted nematic liquid crystal display device for conducting a display operation in normally black mode and specifying liquid crystal front retardation, slow axes of compensators and in-plane retardations of first and second optical compensators.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a Group and a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

Please note that the above requirement for restriction is not exhaustive and the Examiner reserves the right to require a further restriction should the need for further restriction arise.

Art Unit: 2871

As a courtesy to Applicant, in addition to the above restriction, the Examiner presently notes performance limitations throughout many of the dependent claims wherein necessary structure appears lacking in the claims in order to properly support the performance limitations.

For example, claim 4 (dependent upon claim 2) suggests that claim 2 is not fully enabled because the elements of claim 4 are required in order for claim 2 to be enabled.

Likewise, claim 5 (dependent upon claim 3) suggests that claim 3 is not fully enabled because the elements of claim 5 are required in order for claim 3 to be enabled.
